

STATE OF TENNESSEE
PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, Autism Spectrum Disorder is a developmental disability that can significantly impair an individual's ability to learn healthy interactive behaviors and understand verbal and nonverbal reciprocal communication; and

WHEREAS, Autism Spectrum Disorders affect young people and adults of every background, and millions of American families know the weight of their impact; and

WHEREAS, Autism Spectrum Disorders affect 1 in 88 children, more than 3 million individuals in the United States are affected; and

WHEREAS, more children will be diagnosed with autism than childhood cancer, juvenile diabetes or pediatric AIDS combined; and

WHEREAS, although a cure has not been found, persons with Autism can be helped to reach their greatest potential with accurate, early diagnosis and appropriate education; and

WHEREAS, Great strides have been made in our understanding of the autism spectrum, and today, children and adults with ASDs are leading independent and productive lives, though barriers still remain for these individuals and their families; and

WHEREAS, it is important to ensure persons living with ASDs have the opportunity to pursue their full measure of happiness and achieve their greatest potential; and

WHEREAS, on World Autism Awareness Day, we recognize Autism as a growing public health issue and recommit to supporting those living with an ASD and their loved ones;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Bill Haslam, Governor of the State of Tennessee, do hereby proclaim April 2, 2013, as in Tennessee and encourage all citizens to join me in this worthy observance.

Autism Awareness Day

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the official seal of the State of Tennessee to be affixed at Nashville on this twentieth day of February, 2013.

Bill Haslam

Governor

Ju Vargitt

Secretary of State